Above all, Emma-Jean Lazarus is rational and logical. She observes her fellow seventh-graders from afar, until she walks in on Colleen Pomerantz. When Emma-Jean tries to help, both girls find friendship where it might have seemed least likely.

HOW TO START YOUR OWN BOOK CLUB

Think it would be hard to start your own book club? Think again!
All you need are some friends who are as excited about the books they read as you are and a little bit of organization.

HERE ARE A FEW TIPS TO GET YOU STARTED:

The best way to find people to be in your book club is to ask your friends. Think of all the people you know who like to read, and ask them to join. If you still don't feel like you have enough people, ask each of your friends to bring someone else. You can usually get a good discussion going with 6–8 people, but any number that is comfortable for you will work. If you're having trouble finding enough cool people to form your club, check with your school, local library, or bookstore to see if there's a group that you can join.

Figure out when and where you want to meet.

Some groups meet once a month, some meet every other month. You could get together at someone's house, in a park, on the beach, or in your school's library. If it sounds too official and overwhelming to decide all the "wheres" and "whens" right now, don't worry! It's YOUR group, so YOU get to make all the decisions. All you have to do is get together once and you can work out the rest of the details later.

Decide how you will choose books, and how the discussions will be run.

Maybe you have a favorite author that you and your friends would like to focus on. Or maybe you want to take turns picking your favorite book. Maybe one person likes to talk and would like to lead the discussion, or maybe you would rather just get together and talk about the books you are reading. If you get stuck, you can often find discussion questions online (try the publisher's website) or at your local library or bookstore.

The most important thing to remember is that there's no right or wrong way to have a book club. Do what you're comfortable with and always have fun, and your group will be a success!

DISCUSSION GUIDE

ABOUT THE BOOKS

EMMA-JEAN LAZARUS FELL IN LOVE

Emma-Jean is experiencing something new and unsettling, but not entirely unpleasant. It's a fluttering in her heart when she imagines herself asking Will to the seventh-grade dance. Her best friend Colleen is worried that Will might laugh if Emma-Jean invites him. After all, Emma-Jean is a different kind of girl—certainly different from queen-bee Laura, who has always claimed Will for herself. Maybe Colleen can distract Emma-Jean from this risky plan by recruiting her for a top-secret investigation. You see, Colleen has an anonymous admirer, and if Emma-Jean can help her figure out who he is, then Colleen could ask him to the dance.

EMMA-JEAN LAZARUS FELL OUT OF A TREE

Above all, Emma-Jean Lazarus is logical. She admires her fellow seventh graders, but their behavior is so irrational and perplexing. Emma-Jean has always kept her distance, content to observe them from afar. But one day Emma-Jean discovers kind and cheerful Colleen Pomerantz sobbing in the girls' room, and Emma-Jean can't just stand by and do nothing. Disaster strikes when Emma-Jean tries to solve Colleen's problem, but something else happens too, something most unexpected: Logical Emma-Jean and heartfelt Colleen become friends.
